Geronimo, last of the great chiefs of the Dragoon-Chiricahua Apaches, was notorious because of his unceasing war on white settlers and prospectors. For 10 years scouting parties of the U. S. 4th and 6th Cavalry were engaged with Geronimo and his murderous band. Captured several times, he always escaped. Finally in 1886 he was tracked down at Fronteras, Mexico, returned to Arizona Territory, and surrendered to General Miles who banished him to Florida.
